

Living Costs Show Sharp Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, led by sharp price increases for food and clothing, rose three-tenths of one per cent in April and were four per cent above a year ago, the government reported today.

Prices were also higher last month for housing, medical care and a broad range of consumer services, said the Labor Department.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the new price increases supported the warning of Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, that the nation's economy is headed for more serious trouble.

The April price increase pushed the consumer price index to 119.9. This means it cost $11.99 in April for typical consumer goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

At the same time, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and industrial raw materials rose one-tenth of one per cent to 108.3.

Chase said most of the price increases resulted from strong demand and higher wages, and that the prospects were for a continued increase.

The bureau also reported that average wages for some 45 million rank and file workers rose two cents an hour to $2.79 in April and weekly earnings hit a record high of $104.63.

Insurance Rate Hearing Reset

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Insurance Commissioner Allen Horne scheduled a hearing for June 25 on his proposal to reduce the rates of credit life insurance in Arkansas.

Horne said the hearing would be on the proposed 38 per cent reduction in rates of "decreas-

$352 Billion U.S. Debt Going Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of paying for the federal debt—already at record levels—will go even higher than originally thought this year because of the current period of tight credit.

The increase, however, is expected to be relatively small.

Interest payments on the federal debt are now expected to be close to $14.5 billion for the fiscal year which ends June 30, or about $150 million more than anticipated last January.

This would mean a year-to-year increase of about $1.1 billion from the $13.4 billion actually paid to carry the debt during the previous fiscal year.

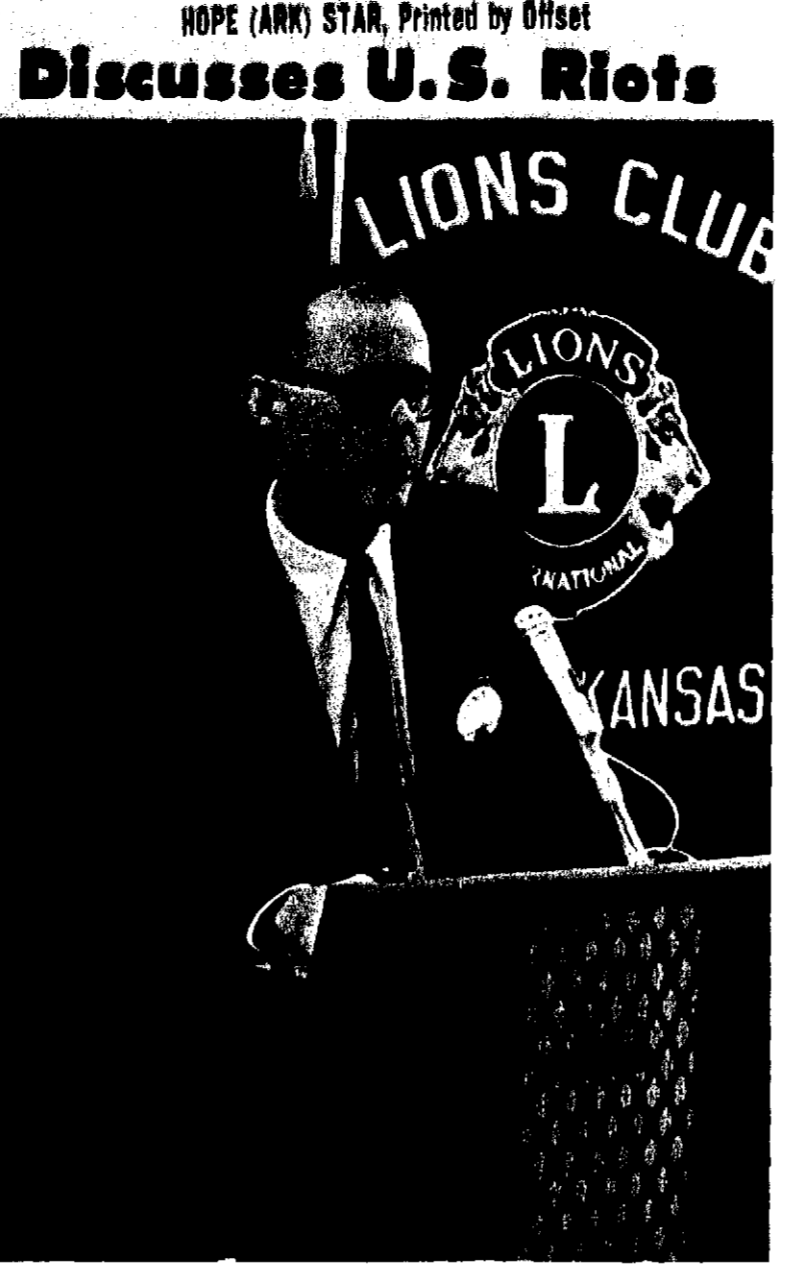

The cost of borrowing money in the current inflationary period has increased rapidly even for the Treasury Department which can command the lowest rates in the country because its securities are considered the safest of all investments.

The extent of that spiral was underscored Monday by Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the Council of Economic Advisers, who said the nation is experiencing an inflationary epidemic that even a tax increase could not quickly cure.

Until President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge is enacted, Okun said in a memorandum made public by the White House, "there will be growing strains on prices, costs, imports and financial markets at home and abroad."

But even with higher taxes, Okun said the route back to price stability will be "long and difficult" and will require the cooperation of the private sector. "It is crucial that we begin the journey now."

Only last week the Treasury paid the highest rate since the Civil War to borrow $1.5 billion. And rates this week, although lower, are still close to the top of the scale.

Popularity Contest in Oregon Today

By WALTER R. MEARS Associated Press Writer PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon Democrats vote today in a presidential popularity contest that offers campaigner Eugene J. McCarthy his best hope of stopping Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's drive for a sweep of their primary contests.

If McCarthy should win, Kennedy said, the benefit would go to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an Oregon absentee.

Richard M. Nixon had two absent rivals in the Republican balloting, California Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller's name is not on the ballot.

Nixon was confident of a victory which would add 18 nominating votes to his column. The key question for him was the margin of victory.

Kennedy and his lieutenants were uneasy, McCarthy talked optimistically. "Indications are, it will be very close," said McCarthy, who lost primaries to Kennedy in Indiana on May 7 and in Nebraska on May 14. "I have reason to be optimistic about it."

The Minnesota senator said his past defeats were but distractions in a campaign which now is back on track.

"I don't know how it's all going to turn out tomorrow," Kennedy told his wind-up rally in Portland Monday night. "The polls say its like that," Kennedy said, holding two fingers side by side.

There were 35 Democratic nominating votes at stake, but much more was involved for Kennedy, whose strategy is based on a sweep of the primaries he has entered. He said at one point that he had to win Oregon to remain a viable candidate.

"Vice President Humphrey is my opponent," Kennedy said. "If Oregon is adverse to me, the vice president will get the benefit."

Polls opened at 8 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time—11 a.m. EDT—for 12 hours of balloting expected to produce a record turnout.

Kennedy dashed across Oregon in a hectic final day of campaigning, then flew to Los Angeles to spend election day seeking votes for the California primary on June 4.

McCarthy planned to go campaigning in California, too. Both candidates return to Portland tonight to await the Oregon decision.

Kennedy's strategists are far more confident about the California primary, and the simultaneous balloting in South Dakota. But a McCarthy upset in Oregon would reverberate in those windup states, and could change the outlook.

About 380,000 Democrats were expected to vote, some 300,000 Republicans.

"I have met jaded people, and my greatest fear is that I'll lose my own feeling of curiosity. That is the only thing that frightens me."

"I don't want to end up a shriveled old cow, bitter at life, and hating men and the world." Here are the things Jackie likes:

725 Could Die Over Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council said today that between 625 and 725 Americans may die in traffic accidents during the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

President Howard Pyle estimated that traffic accidents also could disable 27,000 to 32,000 men, women and children.

The tabulation period will run from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

The record for motor vehicle fatalities during a Memorial Day holiday is 608. It was set during a four-day observation last year.

Pyle said in a statement that accidents during a nonholiday period of equal length probably would cause about 580 deaths and 26,000 disabling injuries.

He urged motorists who will be on the roads during the weekend to make preparation.

"Preparation of the car, planning of the route, and preparation of the driver—in terms of starting in plenty of time, knowing what to watch out for and understanding defensive driving maneuvers—could make a massive difference in the weekend toll," he said.

cooking, ironing, etc. There was just one thing I respected my mother for. She wouldn't let me get out of line. If I dared say a dirty word, she would slap me silly. She never let me wear any make-up because she thought it would attract boys and boys meant trouble. So at 14 I was a little wallflower. I'm now almost 18.

Joan, my stepmother is a real swinger, in a nice way. I think my Dad married her mostly to make me happy. She gets me everything a girl wants—those things my mother wouldn't let me have. She lets me date and I'm going with popular boys, getting invited to wonderful parties, etc.

But Helen, I feel so guilty I can't enjoy this. It is against my mother. Am I normal to feel this way?—SUELLEN

Dear Suellen: If "normal" is what everyone experiences, then guilt is normal, for few escape feeling it. Yours will come in proper perspective when you realize it stems mostly from regret for a condition you couldn't help. You didn't cause your mother's alcoholism, nor could you be blamed for hating it—(not her.) There's no need to feel disloyal because you love and appreciate your stepmother.

Perhaps you can't enjoy parties because your mother's fears burned deep at a very impressionable time. Possibly your folks are pushing too fast in an effort to give you all you've missed. They may not be giving you enough time to talk it out. I'm sure your guilt will disappear when you find the real reasons aren't really so big after all.—H.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Thomas Avenue Baptist Church was the site of the April 12 wedding of Miss Suzanne Huckabee and Charles Ray Martin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Huckabee, 2407 Ingersol, Pasadena. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Martin, 3002 Strawberry Rd., Pasadena.

Rev. Claude Tipps officiated at the double ring, candle-light ceremony. An arch and two tree candelabras, baskets of white glads, and palm trees graced the altar for the ceremony. Jon Lamkin provided the nuptial music and Mrs. Bonnie McLennan, soloist, sang, "The Twelfth of Never," "Whither Thou Goest!" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride was escorted down the candlelit aisle by her father. She wore a formal cage of lace over a fitted gown of peau de soie. A cathedral length train of silk illusion, edged in appliques of lace fell from the shoulders. A double crown of sequins, seed pearls and lace held her cathedral veil of silk illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of lily of the valley, centered with a purple orchid.

Miss Linda Kay Huckabee, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and bridesmaid was Mrs. Ronnie Hurd, sister of the groom. The maid of honor wore a floor length cage gown of purple silk organza over purple peau de soie. The bridesmaid wore lavender silk organza over lavender peau de soie. The attendants wore floor length veils and carried colonial bouquets of purple and lavender mums. Smiley Hill was flower girl and Dale Corder was ring bearer.

Charles E. Martin, father of the groom, was best man, and Richard Hill was groomsman. Paul Wheelington of Colliad, Texas and Gale Ray of Pearland, Texas were ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony at the fellowship hall. The three tier colonade wedding cake was trimmed with miniature live orchids and silver appointments were used. Members of the houseparty were Martha Ayres, Gail Guthrie, Frankie Pursley, Deanna Hadley and Kathie Brinlee, all of Pasadena.

For traveling the bride wore a green silk ensemble with orchid corsage. The couple will reside in Pensacola, Florida, where the groom is stationed with the United States Navy. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Pasadena High School.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Huckabee, 918 1st St., Hope, and Mrs. Lewis C. Yocom, also of Hope, Texas were ushers.

CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT?

Dear Helen: I came home with a hickey on my neck, and to punish me, my mother cut off my beautiful fingernails to the quick, while my Dad held my hands.

She never forbade me to have one, and some of the other girls seem proud of a hickey. I didn't do anything wrong. My boyfriend respects me, we're both honor students and also honorable. I wanted to know what a hickey was like, so I asked him, and it was all kind of an experiment. We wouldn't try it again because I found out its not what it's whispered to be.

I tried to tell my parents this, but they acted like the world had come to an end. My mother said if I make the least little mistake in the future, she'll cut off all my hair. I guess she knows what will hurt most, as I'm very careful about grooming.

My boyfriend says this is not discipline, it's torture. To ruin a girl's looks for punishment for something she was never told not to do? I love my parents, but I'm questioning.

Dear Questioning: I'm questioning too! You got uncivilized punishment when all you needed was a mother-daughter talk. I think your parents let fear take the upper hand. They're probably as ashamed of themselves as I am of them. Talk it out now, before resentment and distrust jail, and you may discover this ugliness has shaken everyone in to better understanding.—H.

Dear Helen: After the death of my mother two years ago, my father remarried. That isn't my problem, I'm crazy about my new stepmother.

You see, my own mother was an alcoholic and I couldn't stand her. My father worked from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. to support us, and then my mother would stay out until 3 a.m. drinking.

I never really asked for much. I had to do all the housework,

Indians in Victory Over Twins

Associated Press Sports Writer
Big Stan Williams has convinced American League hitters he's no easy mark, but opposing pitchers are just beginning to get the message.

Williams trimmed a couple of points off his major league leading earned run average Monday night and crossed up Minnesota's braintrust with a two-run seventh inning single that gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-1 victory over the Twins.

The 6-foot-5, 235-pound right-hander, in his second season with the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees, left the game in the bottom of the seventh on an 0.76 ERA and a .384 batting average.

While 23-year-old Mike Paul, making his first big league appearance, was protecting Williams' third victory with 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, Detroit's Ed Mathews slugged his way into sixth place on the all-time home run list.

The 36-year-old veteran hit his 511th and 512th homers, moving past Mel Ott, as the Tigers dropped a 7-6 12-inning verdict to the California Angels. Boston edged Oakland 3-2 in the only other AL action.

The Houston Astros buried the Dodgers 10-1 under a 16-hit assault in the only game on the National League schedule.

Williams was locked in a 1-1 duel with Twins' ace Dean Chance when Tony Horton led off the seventh with a double and moved to third on Max Alvis' sacrifice bunt. Chance struck out Vic Davalillo, then walked Larry Brown intentionally to get at Williams.

Brown stole second and Williams looped a single down the right field foul line, scoring Horton and Brown for his third and fourth RBI of the year.

The Twins, who had pushed over an unearned run in the third inning, threatened with one out in the bottom of the seventh when Cesar Tovar singled and took third on a double by pinch hitter Bob Allison.

But Paul, summoned from the minors Monday morning, came out of the bullpen to strike out pinch hitter Frank Kostro, retire Rod Carew on a grounder for the third out and stymie the Twins the rest of the way.

Mathews clouted a two-run homer off Sammy Ellis in the fourth inning and chased the California starter with a leadoff blast in the seventh before Norm Cash's two-run pinch homer off Minnie Rojas sent the Tigers into a 6-5 lead.

But Bubba Morton's third single drove in the tying run in the bottom of the seventh and the Angels, who collected 18 hits in all, won it in the 12th on Rick Reichardt's single, a balk by reliever Daryl Patterson and Tom Satrlano's double.

The loss, fourth for the first place Tigers in their last five decisions, left them one half game ahead of idle Baltimore and one game up on the third place Indians.

Carl Yastrzemski and Ken Harrelson poked bases-empty homers for the Red Sox before Boston Howard's sacrifice fly in the seventh drove in the winning run.

Howard delivered against John "Blue Moon" Odom after Joe Foy walked and who moved around to third on a passed ball and sacrifice.

Bert Campaneris' run-producing single off winner Gary Bell had pulled the A's even at 2-2 in the fifth.

The Astros raked southpaw Claude Osteen and three relief.

Dancer's Racing Career Over

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancer's Image, the disqualified winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby, has finished his racing career, his owner Peter Fuller of Boston announced today.

Fuller, in a statement at Belmont Park, said: "It is with tremendous regret that I announce that Dancer's Image has run his last race. 'He will not be able to start in the Belmont Stakes on Saturday. He did not come out of his work in good shape yesterday.'"

"After a conference with morning with Dr. Girard regarding his right ankle, I have decided to retire him. Dancer's Image is too honest and game a horse to allow him to race in the Belmont and not be in perfect physical condition to give his best."

"He will be unwound at my Runnymede Farm in North Hampton, N.H. while I consider many offers I have received to his syndication."

It had been learned earlier that the fabled colt of the 3-year-old division was being withdrawn from Saturday's $100,000 added Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park.

Nothing has gone right for Dancer's Image, the sore-ankled, popular son of the great Native Dancer, since he won the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct on April 22.

He was disqualified after winning the Kentucky Derby on May 4 and two weeks later lost his third-place purse in the Preakness on another disqualification.

And today in London, Lloyd's, the international insurance agency, said it has canceled a $1.5-million insurance policy on the thoroughbred.

In the Derby, the first of the three events making up the triple crown, Dancer's Image charged from behind to win in thrilling fashion.

But the following Tuesday the colt was disqualified because a urine analysis disclosed he had been given an anti-inflammation medication.

Turbo Has Finally Qualified

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Driver Jim Hurtubise, beset by mechanical problems all month, qualified his turbocharged Offenhauser roadster Monday for the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

"All I wanted to do was get in the race," Hurtubise said after qualifying at 162.191 miles an hour. "We've had trouble all month getting four laps in succession without anything going wrong, and I knew this was it."

The North Tonawanda, N.Y., driver's run was typical of a frantic extra day of time trials forced by weekend rains.

Two drivers were injured, one seriously, during 18 qualification attempts to fill the 33-car starting field for Thursday's race.

Rookie Bob Hurt, 28, Pottomac, Md., suffered two fractured vertebrae in his lower neck and was paralyzed from the waist down after slamming into the wall on the first turn in practice.

He was listed in satisfactory condition after surgery, but doctors said it might be weeks before they would know whether there was any permanent damage.

Another rookie, Rick Muther, 32, of Laguna Beach, Calif., escaped with a mild concussion after his car hit the wall on the same turn during a qualification run.

Ronnie Bucknum, a rookie from La Canada, Calif., had his disqualification reinstated for the race. The Eagle-Ford had been ruled 20 pounds overweight after going 184.211 in a qualification run Saturday. But a check showed track scales were faulty.

Larry Dickson of Marietta, Ohio, was the last to make the field. He drove the 10-mile trial at an average of 161.124 m.p.h. with the same Hawk Ford Mar-10 Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., won the pole position last year at 168.779.

Also making the field on the final day were Mike Mosley, La Puente, Calif.; Carl Williams, Grandview, Mo.; George Snider, Fresno, Calif.; Sammy Sessions, Nashville, Mich.; and Arnie Knepper, Belleville, Ill.

San Diego's Gamble Has Paid Off

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city of San Diego's gamble paid off today when it was awarded a National League baseball franchise.

The quest for a big league team began more than a decade ago. But it wasn't until 1965, when voters gave a 72 per cent approval to the stadium bond issue, that citizens could prove their support. And they began using when, not if, in baseball discussions.

Voters knew that for the city's $28 million stadium to show a profit it had to have major league baseball as a summer tenant.

They also knew that a 50,000-seat stadium would enhance the city's chances to get a major league team.

The campaign to bring a major league team was championed by the city council, county board of supervisors, chamber of commerce, as well as newspapers, radio and television stations—and banker-industrialist C. Arnholt Smith.

Smith owned a radio station that carried San Diego Padres games in the Pacific Coast League. He decided it would be more profitable to own the team than to pay rising broadcast fees, so he bought the Padres in 1955 for $300,000. He sold the radio station.

He quickly invested $1.5 million to build Westgate Park, and he made it known that the Mission Valley facility could be expanded to accommodate a big league franchise.

Smith was not alarmed last year when the American League decided to expand to Seattle and switch Kansas City to Oakland. He was overjoyed, because the AL had eliminated San Diego's prime West Coast competitors for a big league team.

The San Diego Padre Baseball Club filed a formal application for a major league franchise in early 1967.

The city spent $19,500 for an analysis of the San Diego market to include in Smith's report to major league owners.

Columbus' ship the Santa Maria, was wrecked on a reef near Haiti and only the Nina and Pinta returned to home port.

Tennis Player Has His Own Transportation

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
PARIS (AP) — Torben Ulrich, the Danish tennis star with the beard and the flowing locks, arrived at the Roland Garros Stadium on a bicycle with his racket slung over his shoulder.

"Never mind the transportation strike," he said, "the only thing that will put me out of the tournament is a puncture."

It looked as if the rest of the 250 players entered in the Open French Tennis Championships would have to adopt the same cheerful solution.

The French Tennis Federation advised all competitors to move to hotels in the Auteuil area, near the stadium. It said that after today there will be no cars provided for the players because there's no more gasoline.

Several players questioned openly whether the French had made a mistake in pressing on with the championships — an historic event because it is open to professionals and amateurs for the first time.

"When do we get out of here?" asked Nancy Richey, U.S. Wightman Cup star from San Angelo, Tex. "They told us there would be transportation for everybody."

The championships officially opened Monday, but fewer than half the players had managed to reach Paris. Because of rain and the shortage of competitors, only four women's singles matches were played.

Four of the big guns of the tournament — Australian professionals Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle — reached here Monday after flying from the United States to the military airport of Bretigny.

Other stars were reported heading for Paris by car.

Trying to Reunite Old Combination

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings are trying to reunite the old Toronto Maple Leafs' defense combination of Bobby Baun and Carl Brewer in hopes of strengthening their defense, worst in the National Hockey League last season.

Sid Abel, who retires as coach this year to devote his full duties to the general manager's office, announced a six-player deal with the Oakland Seals Monday. The Wings will name a new coach next week.

The Wings sent defenseman Howie Young, left wing Gary Jarrett, Detroit-born forward Doug Roberts and an unnamed amateur player to the Seals for Baun, 31, and Ron Harris, 25.

It was the second major trade for Detroit this year. The Wings dealt forwards Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith to Toronto March 3 for Frank Mahovlich, Pete Stenkowski, Gary Under and the rights to Brewer, who regained his amateur status two years ago.

Baun and Brewer were defensive standouts when they played together at Toronto. Baun put in 11 seasons with the Leafs before going to Oakland in the expansion draft last year. Harris was a right winger for Oakland last season.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Cherry, 31, a defenseman formerly in the Boston Bruins' organization, has signed a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League.

Home Run Production Has Declined

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Home run production has declined almost 10 per cent in baseball's major leagues this season, and sluggers Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Jim Wynn of Houston have been among those most affected.

With one-fourth of the 1968 campaign completed, National League batters have hit 235 homers, a pace that would bring their total to only 940 by season's end and leave them well under last year's final total of 1,102.

American League batters through Monday night's games had 300 homers. At that rate, they would just about equal the 1967 aggregate of 1,197.

Yastrzemski, who paced both majors last season with 44 homers, has hit six homers this year and Wynn, who wound up with 37, has connected only five times.

Don Mincher of California, who slammed 25 homers in '67, has only one this year, and Curt Blefary of Baltimore, a 22-homer man last season, has had only two in '68.

Boston's George Scott had 19 last year and only one this season. Frank Robinson of Baltimore walloped 30 in '67 and also has one in '68. Atlanta's Clete Boyer has three this year, and last season he wound up with 26.

Mincher, Robinson and Boyer have been sidelined for various periods this year, Mincher and Boyer after being hit by pitched balls and Robinson with mumps.

Yet, even the healthy batsmen are well behind their 1967 home run gaits.

Bob Allison of Minnesota, who had 24 homers last season, has a mere three this year. Norm Cash of Detroit, who had 22, now has two. Lou Brock of St. Louis, a 21-homer batter in '67, has three in '68.

Cincinnati's Vada Pinson walloped 18 homers last year and has only one in '68. Adolfo Phillips of the Cubs slammed 17 in '67 and has three this season. Billy Williams, another Cub who wound up with 28 a year ago, has only four.

Washington's Frank Howard paces both circuits with 19 home runs. However, the National League leaders have only nine.

Monday's Stars

BATTING — Ed Mathews, Tigers, clubbed his 511th and 512th career homers, climbing past Mel Ott into sixth place on the all-time list, in a 7-6 12-inning setback at California.

PITCHING — Mike Paul, Indians, rescued Stan Williams from a seventh-inning jam and hurled one-hit ball for 2-3 innings in his first major league appearance as Cleveland and trimmed Minnesota 3-1.

Papa Bear Quits Pro Football

By JERRY LESKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A damaging slide into third base as a New York Yankee baseball hopeful 50 years ago finally sent George S. Halas limping into retirement as legendary pro football coach of the Chicago Bears.

A new Bear coaching era is expected to start today as Halas, 73, names his replacement, probably 38-year-old Jim Dooley, Papa Bear's top assistant.

Halas stunned sports writers Monday at his downtown office with the announcement that, "I am stepping aside now because I no longer can keep up with the physical demands of coaching the team on Sunday afternoons."

Rather than his age, Halas blamed an arthritic hip, stemming from an injury when he made a bouncing slide as a rookie Yankee outfielder in 1919, for his decision to quit after 39 Bear coaching seasons.

That spring training injury, Halas recalled, "Slid me out of baseball and into pro football, the luckiest break of my life."

"My hip condition has progressed to the point where I simply cannot move about quickly on the sidelines," said the lone survivor of the National Football League's founding fathers.

Halas, who organized the Bears as the Decatur, Ill., Staleys in 1920, retired previously several times — the latest occasion a dozen years ago when he turned over the Bear reins to a trusted aide, Paddy Driscoll, for the 1956 and 1957 seasons.

But Halas bounced back as field boss in 1958 declaring: "Sitting back in the stands, I felt pro football coaching methods were changing and I developed some new ideas which I want to try out."

This time, Halas vows he will stay in the stands.

Halas used a cane in recent years, favoring his ailing hip, and it became increasingly difficult for him to maneuver on the field.

Dooley became an heir apparent for Papa Bear's job after George Allen left the Bears to the old coach's displeasure to become head coach of the Los Angeles Rams early in 1966.

Dooley, who retired as a Bear pass-receiving star in 1962, assumed Allen's post as defensive chief and this year was named boss of the Bear offensive unit.

Halas still presides as chairman of the board for the Bears whom he has owned for 49 years. His won, George "Mugsie" Halas, Jr., is president and general manager.

Halas plotted with a group of pro pioneers the birth of the NFL in a Canton, Ohio, automobile

National League to Spread Out

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — "If we're going to expand, let's really spread it out," said Warren Giles, president of the National League Monday night following a lengthy meeting of owners.

The National League really spread it out — from San Diego to Montreal as major league baseball took on an international flavor for the first time.

While Montreal and San Diego were being selected during a marathon meeting of more than 10 hours, Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth and Milwaukee were bypassed.

Each of the new members will pay a $10 million price for the purchase and immediately share in national and World Series television contracts.

The National League now has 12 teams to match the 12 the American League will present next season with the addition of Kansas City and Seattle.

The two leagues will hold a joint discussion.

The American League went on its own in expanding by 1969 and, in essence, forced the National League to do the same.

The American League has its own meeting scheduled today, presumably to announce a split division schedule. The NL also will hold a separate meeting following the joint discussion.

Game scheduling for 1969 will now become the debating point between the two leagues and various radio and television contracts will have to be taken into consideration.

In announcing the selections for San Diego and Montreal, Giles called the move the "most important decision the league has made since allowing the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers to move to the West Coast."

"The feeling of the league was that if two new teams were added, they should not be in the same general section of the country," said Giles.

This probably knocked out Dallas-Fort Worth because the Houston Astros are located some 270 miles away.

Giles pushed off the Milwaukee failure by saying "Milwaukee is only 85-90 miles away from two major league clubs in Chicago."

Giles added that Buffalo made a fine representation and was a "difficult area to exclude."

Naturally, the excluded cities were disappointed, with the Dallas-Fort Worth group vowing it would get major league baseball even if it meant enticing an American League club into the area.

Clay Appeals for Rehearing of Conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay has asked the entire 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to rehear the case against him.

Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, was stripped of his boxing title and sentenced to five years in prison last June for refusing induction into the Army.

The new plea, filed Monday, seeks rehearing by all of the circuit's 13 judges sitting en banc. The circuit's normal three-judge panel, in a ruling May 6, upheld the trial court, which rejected the fighter's claim that he was a Black Muslim minister and thus could claim conscientious objector status.

Dick Motta Not a Very Good Loser

CHICAGO (AP) — "I'm not a very good loser and I don't intend to be one in the NBA."

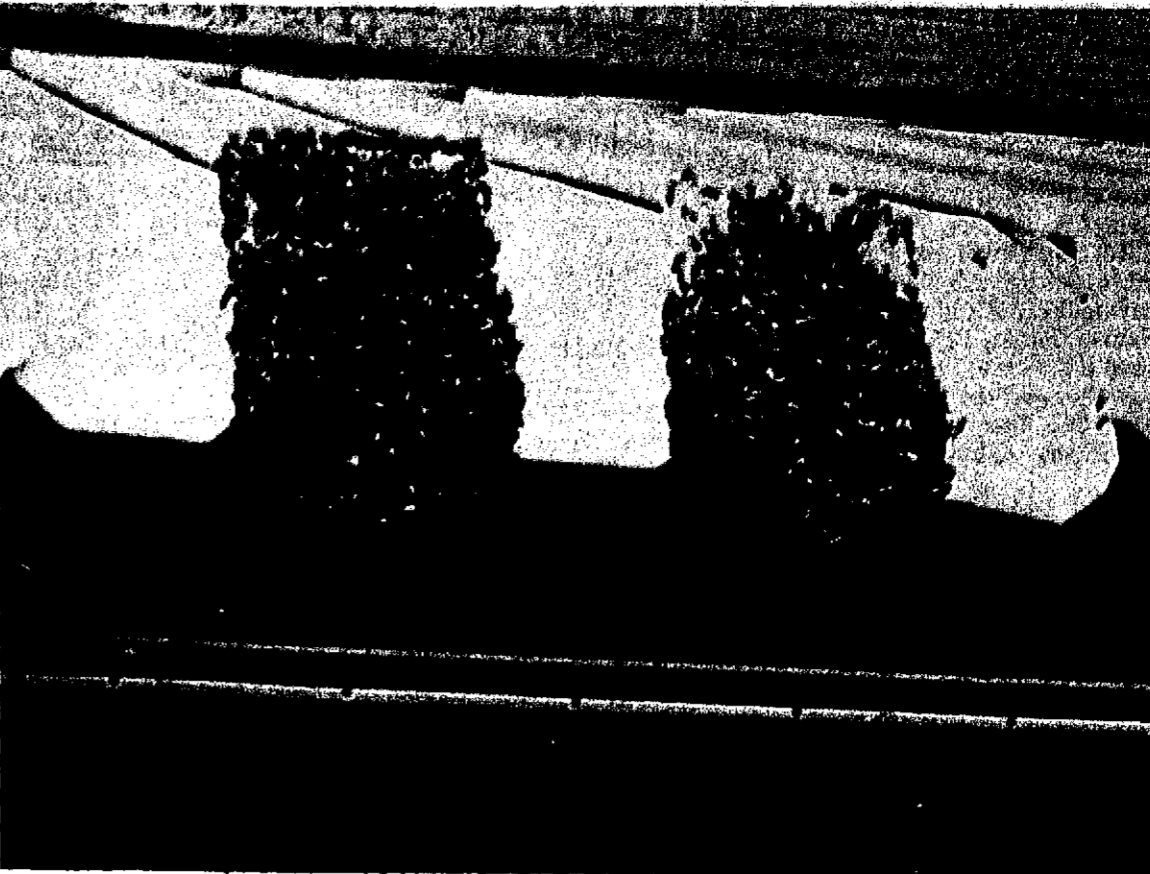

With those words, 36-year-old Dick Motta, a highly successful college coach at Weber State who has seen only 12 National Basketball Association games, took over Monday as head coach of the Chicago Bulls.

The 5-foot-10 Motta, who never made the team during his undergraduate days at Utah State, succeeds John "Red" Kerr, a foot taller and a long-time pro star who is coaching the new Phoenix club.

Motta began his college coaching career at Weber when the Ogden, Utah, school was a junior college. In two years he had a 44-17 record. Over the past six seasons, when Weber became a four-year college, Motta's record was 129-34.

Since he began his coaching career Motta has had a sign in his locker room. It reads: "Believe in luck, and the harder I work the luckier I get."

Hunt Plans a New Major League

DALLAS (AP) — After being denied a National League franchise, Dallas-Fort Worth co-owner Tommy Mercer said he and partner Lamar Hunt may form a third major baseball league, the Dallas News reported today.

The newspaper's special dispatch from Chicago quoted Mercer as saying the two propose to see first what franchises might be available in either the National or American League.

Mercer, from Fort Worth, was described as calm but obviously angry and blaming Houston Astros' owner Roy Hofheinz "100 per cent" for blocking Dallas-Fort Worth efforts to land one of the two teams in the expanding National League.

The News reported Hofheinz told newsmen that "I voted for the unanimous choice" — San Diego and Montreal — and brushed aside further questions. These details were given by the Dallas newspaper.

In Monday's session of National League owners, Hofheinz was quoted by a reliable source as stating that a Dallas-Fort Worth entry would cut into Houston's radio-television revenues, pleading that he was over-extended financially and expressing fear that Texas competition would endanger the Astros' operation.

Mercer said he and Hunt first discussed the idea of organizing a new major league several weeks ago.

Guards Are Called Out in Louisville

By JOHN FOX Associated Press Writer LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Between 200 and 400 National Guardsmen patrolled Louisville streets today after looting, burning and scattered violence broke out in the city's predominantly Negro West End.

The disturbance, which erupted following a street corner rally Monday night, resulted in the arrest of 90 adults and 40 juveniles, most of whom police said were charged with disorderly conduct or breach of peace.

Sporadic sniper fire injured at least two men, one of whom was reported in serious condition. At least eight other persons, including two firemen and a police captain, were treated at General Hospital.

Besides numerous smashed windows and about a half dozen fires, the initial damage appeared to be not serious, police said.

Relative calm returned to the city of 400,000 about 1:30 a.m. this morning, about five hours after the violence broke out.

At the height of the disorders, Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn ordered out the National Guard, some 700 strong and Louisville Mayor Kenneth A. Schmidt imposed a curfew of 11 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. It was to be reinstated tonight, though perhaps not at the same hours.

About 400 of the National Guardsmen remained on active duty in armories, awaiting a call if needed.

The violence began among a crowd estimated at between 600 to 700 persons who had gathered at a rally to protest the reinstatement of a police officer, who had been dismissed for allegedly using excessive force while arresting a Negro.

The officer's dismissal was overturned by the city's Civil Service Board which ordered the patrolman reinstated after a 15-day suspension.

The reinstatement drew protests from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Kentucky Christian Leadership Conference.

As police officers attempted to clear the intersection following the rally, youths standing on the roof of a poolroom pelleted them with a barrage of bottles, rocks and sticks. Two taxicabs and a police cruiser were set afire as the disorders grew in intensity.

"About 30 young kids—about 11 or 12 years old—started throwing bottles and bricks at the police," a witness, Bud Dorsey, said. "Right away the crowd started spreading to get out of the way."

"The police just stood there with the kids throwing rocks at them," he added.

Braves in Win Over Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A three-run homer by Shreveport's Ted Bashore in the sixth inning sent the Braves to a 6-3 Texas League baseball victory over Arkansas Monday night.

The Braves broke the game open in the sixth when Clarence Gaston stroked a run-producing double to give Shreveport a 2-1 lead. Bashore's second round-tripper of the year followed moments later.

Arkansas attempted to rally in the seventh scoring a pair of runs on the back-to-back doubles by Sonny Ruberto and Quique Rivera.

Mike Christino hit his 11th home of the year for the Travelers in the second.

YOU HAVE A SECOND CHANCE — MAYBE!

In the backwash of the wind and hail storms which have struck Southwest Arkansas recently, the Anderson-Frazier Insurance Agency has reacted quickly to the need for our claim services by our assureds. We have called in the General Adjustment Bureau (and they have been marvelous) and every company adjuster we could beg and borrow in order to get to everyone having damage as soon as possible. We are proud of the job our adjusters are doing.

One sad thing has come to light, though, as we handle these claims. Many property owners do not carry enough insurance to recover full value of their destroyed property. If you're one of the lucky ones who has been given a second chance, please be smart and take advantage of it. Catastrophe can strike at any time! We urge you to contact us now and let us review the coverage on your home and other property.

Small Navy Armada Seeks Missing Sub

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A small U.S. Navy armada from both sides of the Atlantic combed the stormy ocean today for a clue to the whereabouts of the missing atomic submarine Scorpion and her 99 crewmen.

What may have happened to the $40 million U.S. attack sub was a mystery. An obvious if unexpressed Navy fear was that the Scorpion may have suffered a fate similar to that of another atomic sub, the Thresher, which sank in the Atlantic off Cape Cod, Mass., in 1963 with 129 men aboard.

An unspecified number of planes were scheduled to join vessels ordered into a broad search Monday when the Scorpion failed to report in as scheduled at the end of a Mediterranean cruise.

A source said Navy attempts to contact the sub—which he termed "part of the normal missing sub procedure"—were continuing.

Because she was returning to the United States submerged, the Navy had not received any communications from the Scorpion since midnight May 21. This was termed routine.

But about noon Monday the Scorpion should have come on the air asking Norfolk, Va., for docking space. Relatives waited at the port. No message came. She was due there at 1 p.m.

The Navy quickly dispatched the first of 19 Atlantic Fleet ships to find the Scorpion, and by 7 p.m. Monday publicly pronounced her "overdue."

"The weather is very, very bad out there," Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, told newsmen at a hurriedly summoned news conference.

The submarine Shark reported 15- to 22-foot waves from the area and was rolling to 22 de-

Harriman and Thuy, displaying no outward concern over the social and political forces swirling through France, met Monday for four hours and 10 minutes and as usual parted in agreement only on meeting again on Friday.

Some Western diplomats speculate privately that if the economic impact of the French strikes becomes much worse or if violence breaks out in Paris again and becomes more widespread and intense, the United States and North Vietnam will have to consider moving the talks.

The U.S. delegation found some evidence of movement on North Vietnam's part Monday on the question of whether North Vietnamese forces are fighting in South Vietnam. A spokesman said Thuy seemed to be nearer conceding the point.

Thuy repeated his argument that the United States is the aggressor in Vietnam and should stop attacking the North without any northern cutback in military activity. He said Vietnam is one country and any Vietnamese has the right to fight for it "on any portion of his dear country."

grees at times.

Moorer offered two possibilities of what may have happened to merely delay the Scorpion in reaching home:

—Weather may have caused her to slow up, and she may have radioed a message about the delay which was lost in stormy turbulence.

—The Scorpion may have altered her course as she rose from the Atlantic's depths to approach the shallower, 650-foot-deep continental shelf extending 40 to 50 miles from the Eastern seaboard, thus slowing her arrival.

The latter, however, would not have explained her failure to communicate with shore.

Would she have messaged in case of trouble? "Of course," he said.

Arkansas Is Fifth in Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government released a survey on Southern school desegregation Monday that showed Arkansas as having 16.8 per cent Negro students in desegregated schools.

Arkansas ranked No. 5 on the list of 11 Southern states in the percentages.

The government said that throughout the 11-state area about 14 per cent of the Negro students attended predominantly white schools. The estimate had been 18 per cent.

The survey covered an extensive area, whereas previous estimates had been determined from samples taken in a small number of districts in the states.

The figures were based on 84 per cent of the 11.5 million children attending Southern schools as of last fall.

The survey showed the following figures for the other states: Texas 26.1 per cent, Virginia 20.4, Tennessee 18.4, Florida 18, North Carolina 18, Georgia 9.5, Louisiana 6.7, South Carolina 6.4, Alabama 5.4 and Mississippi 3.9.

The 18 per cent estimate made earlier this year had represented a slowdown in the rate of racial mixing and officials of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare were saying privately that the rate found in the latest survey was a disappointment.

HEW estimates on the percentages for previous years included 3.2 per cent in 1964, 6.5 per cent in 1965 and 12.5 per cent in 1966.

HEW said the survey showed that districts where voluntary desegregation plans were used that the percentage of race mixing rose from 14.1 per cent

Donated Items Sold on the Black Market

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Some clothing donated by Americans to the Catholic Relief Services for use by the Vietnamese is being sold in the Da Nang black market.

Men and women rummage through the shirts, slacks and occasional sweaters spread tables in the black market stalls. The customers pick out the clothes they want, haggle amiably over the price with several women clerks and close the deal.

Three shipping bags were seen this weekend in the stalls. They were marked "From Catholic Relief Services, U.S. C.C., U.S.A., Donated by Catholics of America. Not to be sold or exchanged."

much higher.

Prices increase to meet the higher costs would mean inflation, reduced exports and possibly devaluation of the franc, which is already under pressure on foreign exchange markets.

Renault, France's biggest auto maker, estimated it would have to raise prices by as much as 12 per cent to meet terms of the proposed settlement. This would price its cars out of foreign markets.

The package settlement offered to most of the 8 to 10 million strikers was termed "catastrophic" by business leaders, who predicted the ruin of many small and medium-size firms.

But the strikers' immediate response was that the settlement wasn't enough, and shouts of "Seguy resign!" were heard at a massive rally of students and workers Monday. Georges Seguy, secretary general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, helped negotiate the package.

The workers had demanded, among other things, an immediate 12 per cent raise and cancellation of a social security decrease-law last fall which reduced benefits and increased worker contributions.

Failure to settle the strike before the June 16 referendum called by President Charles de Gaulle could have serious political implications. It could mean a massive no vote against his proposals for reform of France's economic and educational structures, and De Gaulle has said he would resign if defeated.

De Gaulle's office said the text of the proposed reforms will be published Wednesday. The president is scheduled to kick off his campaign for the referendum with a radio-TV speech Monday.

Francois Mitterand, chairman of the Democratic and Socialist Leftist Federation, and Waldeck Rochet, secretary-general of the French Communist party, were to meet today on possible ways to take advantage of the crisis.

About 50,000 union members and students massed into a stadium on the south side of Paris Monday to applaud a speech calling for transfer of "power in the factories to the workers and power in the universities to the students."

Found Guilty of Killing Daughter

By NICHOLAS CAVATRO
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Red-haired Alice Crimmins was found guilty today of killing her 4-year-old daughter after a sensation-packed trial marked by the defendant's calm recitation of her extra-marital escapades with a number of men.

A jury of 12 married men announced its verdict of first degree manslaughter at 1:55 a.m. and the crowded courtroom gave a collective gasp. The 29-year-old defendant, a former cocktail waitress, sagged into the arms of her attorneys.

A whimper and a sob escaped her bowed head, her shoulders began quivering and a moment later she collapsed completely under routine questioning by the court clerk.

Then white-haired Justice Peter T. Farrell revoked her $25,000 bond and remanded her to the Women's House of Detention. "Oh, no!" she cried as attendants led her away and she left with a last agonized look toward her husband, Edmund, 32.

After she left he buried his face in his hands and sobbed uncontrollably.

Farrell, who presided at the 14-day trial, set July 12 for sentencing on the conviction which could bring a prison term of from 10 to 20 years. Harold C. Harrison, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal the verdict.

The state charged that Mrs. Crimmins strangled her daughter, Alice Marie, on the night of July 13, 1965, rather than lose custody of the child to the father from whom she was then estranged.

Defense counsel contended that both Alice Marie and her 5-year-old brother, Edmund Jr., were abducted from their apartment in Queens. The girl's body was found later the same day in a weed-choked lot.

The prosecution based its case largely on testimony by one of the former boyfriends, building contractor Joseph Rorech, who said Mrs. Crimmins confided to him during a motel rendezvous that she had killed her daughter.

His statement drew a cry of "Not true!" from the defendant.

Two U.S. helicopters have been shot down, but all aboard were rescued unhurt.

Up at South Vietnam's northern frontier, more hard fighting was reported between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese, with enemy artillerymen booming away at U.S. bases from Khe Sanh, on the western flank of the demilitarized zone to Dong Ha on the east.

In preliminary reports military spokesmen said 126 North Vietnamese and 21 Marines were killed in eight skirmishes along the DMZ Monday and today, and another 186 Leathernecks were wounded. South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 96 North Vietnamese in the Dong Ha sector.

Big Airliner Is Down in India

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An Indonesian airliner with a large number of persons aboard was reported to have crashed in flames before dawn Tuesday northwest of Bombay.

Authorities at Bombay's Santa Cruz airport said they had received reports all aboard were killed. The number was not known but airport sources said there were "many" persons aboard when the plane took off for Karachi, the capital of Pakistan.

The plane, variously reported to be a Coronado jet or a Convair, was operated by Indonesia's Garuda Airways.

Six miles to the northwest, troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division battled a force of more than 400 most of Monday and said they killed at least 218 and capturing two, wiping out perhaps half of the enemy force. The Americans reported six of their men killed and 28 wounded.

Like the fighting around Saigon, the fighting along the DMZ also was in its fourth day.

Other Editors' had this space yesterday for reasons connected with newspaper production. Your editor spent Sunday afternoon photographing high water at the Narrows and Millwood Lakes, and worked up a picture page for Monday—only to find it crowded out of both yesterday's and today's editions. It will run tomorrow.

It takes one person a full working day to produce a page of local pictures. Shooting the hand-camera is the least of it. And it doesn't take long to process the 35mm. film strip, or produce the prints, an automatic print-processor handling a 20-exposure film in about 30 minutes. But then the shop re-photographing begins, making screened negatives for the press plates, writing and setting the captions, and putting the assembly together in a complete newspaper page.

While I was on the road Sunday a new drama was unfolding in the "back 40," which, for latecomers, is the miniature wildlife refuge on three town lots behind my house.

My mated pair of Canadian Honkers broke off with their old pals, the domestic white Emden geese, after two disastrous attempts at a community nest, and this year set up their own hatching place. The Canadian hatch hasn't come off yet, but the gander is standing guard. He didn't quite clog me while I was putting out corn Sunday but took out his wrath on the domestic pair, running them bow-legged across the back 40.

Right after that I discovered the white geese have set up their own nest, too, with 14 eggs to date. But "Mrs. Grundy," the loud-mouthed hen, is running around as usual tending to everybody's business except her own. I charged her off a year ago, but am betting the Canadian hen comes through with some goslings.

Some years ago business people discovered that the Wall Street Journal, far from being just a bankers' journal, is actually America's national newspaper. It is always coming up with an exciting business adventure, or a humorous feature such as the one I read this morning.

Earl C. Gottschalk, Jr., tells of a strange ailment that affects many people who dine in Chinese restaurants in the U.S.A. It's called CRS — the Chinese Restaurant Syndrome.

Patrons complain of headaches, numbness in the face, and other symptoms — but the trouble goes away in about an hour.

Chinese restaurant owners ridicule the story, saying the complaints come from customers who have drunk too much, or from competing Italian pizza parlors.

A university medical laboratory expert is studying the question, but meanwhile goes right on eating at Chinese restaurants.

It's a humorous but apparently minor crisis.

All of us have fixed prejudices against certain foods in public places. Mine is a prejudice against the fat traveling salesman who comes into a restaurant and invariably orders a fried steak and french fries — and drops dead at 50.

Tax Issues Voted Down in House

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's weekend bid to arouse public support for the tax proposals he placed before the special legislative session had little impact on the 100 persons he had to sway the most—the members of the Arkansas House.

The lower chamber so soundly defeated a pair of tobacco tax bills Monday that the administration's sponsor of a third tax measure declined to let it come to a vote.

Meanwhile, the Senate moved Rockefeller's controversial bill to legalize the sale of mixed drinks out of committee without recommendation and a vote on it could come today.

The house was scheduled to convene at 1 p.m. and the Senate at 1:30.

After hearing speeches in which lawmakers charged that funds had been wasted and squandered in the state penitentiary system, the House crushed a bill calling for a 15 per cent excise tax on the wholesale selling price of cigars and cigarrillos. The vote was 16-76.

Moments later the lower chamber defeated the proposed 3-cent per package increase on cigarette taxes by a 36-57 vote.

And, sandwiched in between, Rep. James L. Sheets of Siloam Springs, sponsor of another tobacco tax bill, decided to defer action on it.

Rockefeller had delivered a statewide television address Saturday night in which he encouraged citizens who agreed with him to urge their legislators to vote for the tax measures to provide funds for the prisons, higher education and public schools.

The three bills had appeared to be doomed from the start of the special session and Monday's action did nothing to help the outlook for the other bill, one that would impose a 15 per cent excise tax on tobacco products other than cigarettes and cigars.

The cigar tax bill generated the most heated debate, especially in its provision that money from it go to bail the prisons out of a financial dilemma.

Only One of Hundred or So Starlets Have Luminosity That Lasts

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — They come and go, the little starlets of the screen, like daisies in the spring.

Or, like a summer meteor, they flash across the sky in a stab of brightness, then disappear into oblivion.

One out of a hundred or so has enduring qualities. Her luminosity lasts. She becomes a star.

Is Jacqueline Bisset, the young British beauty who replaced Mia Farrow in "The Detective," such a one? The entertainment world is wondering. So is Jacqueline.

One of her greatest boosters is veteran actor Horace McMahon, the perennial cop portrayer whom Frank Sinatra insisted appear with him in "The Detective."

"This girl can act," said McMahon, "and she has the kind of face a cameraman likes to photograph forever."

Jacqueline is tall, slender, and bosomy, and has green eyes and coppery brown hair. She and Julie Christie look enough alike to be sisters.

Just turned 23, Miss Bisset—her chums call her Jackie—is a former photographic model who first won real studio attention with a small but standout part in "Two for the Road." Altogether, she has been in seven films.

Part of Housing Bill Aiding Riot Ravaged Cities Eliminated

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to cut $250 million from a special fund for low and moderate-income family apartment subsidies in the omnibus housing bill, but defeated an attempt to slash the authorization for model cities by $500 million.

The actions leave the model cities total at $1 billion and the family apartment subsidy at $250 million in the $5.2 billion measure.

Both decisions, on amendments of Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., were by voice vote with only a handful of senators present.

The quick action on two major amendments encouraged Senate leaders to predict the body would complete action on the measure during the day.

Action started Monday as the Senate voted 57 to 2 to strip from the measure a provision designed to give special help to cities ravaged by riots. Opponents argued that money should be reserved for victims of natural disasters such as hurricanes, earthquakes and floods as it now is.

And he contended the provision could be interpreted as telling would-be looters and arsonists, "Go and have a big time, boys."

French Riots Costing $1 Billion Week

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Economists estimate the general strike costing France more than a billion dollars a week in lost production, and no return to work is in sight.

France's worst postwar crisis went into its 12th day today after most striking workers in private industry shouted down a proposed settlement which included a 10 per cent pay raise.

In government-run industries, an "accord in principle" on a similar offer was reached with the coal miners' union. But electrical and gas workers still were negotiating and the railroad workers broke off talks with the government.

Economists predicted the weekly loss from the strike would rise steadily as the strike continued. In addition, the economy faced severe strains from any settlement finally worked out.

The proposed 10 per cent pay raise would cost $3.7 billion a year for French businesses, already operating on lower profit margins than those in any other country in the European Common Market. And if the strikers maintain their refusal to accept the offer, the cost could go nents argued the provision might encourage rioters.

Under the model cities program, first approved by Congress in 1966, a city can receive large new federal grants if it presents a coordinated plan to attack blight in a large section. Already 63 cities have been designated to receive planning grants under the program.

The $250 million cut was voted in a proposed $500 million special allotment to continue Federal National Mortgage Association subsidies for a special program of rental housing for low and moderate-income families.

Tower contended the program, first adopted in 1961, has not really helped the poor. He said a new subsidy plan in the bill is designed to build apartments for low-income families, and should not be duplicated.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., led the attack against the provision that would have made cities suffering riot damage eligible for federal grants under the long-established disaster relief program.

Russell argued that money should be reserved for victims of natural disasters such as hurricanes, earthquakes and floods as it now is.

And he contended the provision could be interpreted as telling would-be looters and arsonists, "Go and have a big time, boys."

Navy Wasted Millions by Buying Excess of Nonstandard Parts

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy wasted $5.9 million by manufacturing vast excess quantities of nonstandard aeronautical repair parts at four naval air stations, says the General Accounting Office.

Investigators for the GAO, auditing arm of Congress, found bins filled with five times as many parts as the Navy's own directives said were required.

The newly released GAO report also said that $2.2 million of the excess parts had been disposed of for a penny on the dollar.

In its reply to the report, the Navy cited difficulties in trying to predict how many parts would be required. But it promised revamped procedures such as standardization of parts numbers and keeping track of how many parts have been used in the past.

The excess parts were manufactured at naval air stations at Quonset Point, R.I.; Jacksonville, Fla.; North Island, Calif.; and Alameda, Calif.

Nonstandard aeronautical parts are items that have restricted usage peculiar to a particular aircraft or engine, and can be easily manufactured by the Navy. Demand for such parts is expected to be low. The whole operation is but one tiny fraction of over-all defense supply and procurement.

Among 33,700 types of parts worth $4.8 million covered in the GAO survey were such items as brackets, screws, hose assemblies, patchplates, springs and cable assemblies.

No Progress in Peace Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he has no evidence Hanoi is ready for "quiet, serious discussions" in Paris. He called for moving the Vietnam talks out of the area of what he termed "fantasy and propaganda."

Following lengthy conversations with Cyrus R. Vance, American negotiator back from the Paris talks to report, Johnson called a sudden news conference to say now is the time to move the Washington-Hanoi conversations toward constructive discussion of concrete ways to achieve peace.

Supreme Court Ruling Has Hemmed in U.S. Draft Card Burners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has hemmed in dissenters by limiting the actions they can take in the name of free speech.

Monday's 7-1 decision directly upheld the 1965 federal law that made destruction of draft cards a crime.

More than that, the ruling by Chief Justice Earl Warren ridled the idea that otherwise illegal actions are shielded from prosecution as "symbolic speech."

"We cannot accept the view," said Warren, "that an apparently limitless variety of conduct can be labeled 'speech' whenever the person engaging in the conduct intends thereby to express

Major U.S. Offensive in 4th Day

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American forces pushed a major new offensive in the central highlands of South Vietnam today as hard fighting continued for the fourth day close to Saigon and below the demilitarized zone.

Contact was reported moderate in the new U.S. assault in the highlands. Allied forces reported 250 enemy troops killed near Saigon Monday and today, while below the DMZ the reported toll was 222 North Vietnamese killed. Viet Cong gunners also jolted Saigon with 11 Soviet rockets early today.

The U.S. 4th Infantry Division launched the new offensive in the central highlands Monday, pushing into high ground west of Dak To in an attempt to envelop North Vietnam's 325C Division.

The enemy division moved south after participating in the 77-day siege of the U.S. Marine base at Khe Sanh, in January and February.

Intelligence sources said main elements of the division were some seven miles west of Dak To. They were reported moving in men and supplies from Laos, eight miles farther west.

The enemy staging areas have been pounded daily by the Air Force's big B52 strikes, but one 4th Division fire base west of Dak To was hit by an estimated 1,000 rockets and mortars and then the North Vietnamese tried to overrun it Sunday.

In a 12-hour battle, the attackers broke through one base perimeter and worked their way into five bunkers before they

Atomic Sub Missing in the Atlantic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy reported today that an oil slick was spotted along the return course of the missing submarine Scorpion two days after the atomic sub's last known communication.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's available rescue equipment would have difficulty saving crewmen from the submarine Scorpion if the missing vessel were located deeper than 300 feet below the ocean's surface, a top Navy expert said today.

Capt. William M. Nicholson, manager of the Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Project, said "We are working essentially with equipment used in 1939" in saving men from the sunken submarine Squalus.

The Squalus went down in 240 feet of water off New Hampshire.

"There have been some improvements, but the equipment is basically the same," Nicholson said in an interview.

The chief item in this equipment is a rescue bell which is lowered from a surface vessel and secured to a submarine hatch. Sub crewmen are lifted to the surface in the pressurized chamber.

The Navy has been working on an advanced rescue system, part of a broad underwater program costing an estimated $600 million.

But the first of a new breed of small rescue submarines capable of reaching depths of 3,500 feet will not be ready for use until 1970, Nicholson said.

There are a number of deep-diving research subs like the Navy's Alvin which can go down about 6,000 feet and the privately owned Albatross, which reportedly can reach depths of 15,000 feet.

Nicholson said they could be used for search purposes under what he called favorable ocean conditions but are not equipped for rescue work.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, told a news conference Monday night that the rescue bell could save trapped submarine crewmen from depths of "several hundred feet," depending on the condition of the submarine. An aide said the rescue bell could operate down to 650 feet.

But later Nicholson indicated that operations with the bell at such a depth were not practical. The key, he said, is the ability of a rescue vessel to moor and hold its position over a submarine.

For this reason, said Nicholson, it is "difficult to use effectively" this equipment at deeper than 300 feet.
